Come hear how your personal energy choices can help accelerate the transition to a sustainable future. Learn how all-electric homes and vehicles are safer, healthier, cost less to operate, and are a powerful way to reduce carbon emissions.

Our individual actions are a critical part of building a clean energy future. This presentation will help you understand what you can do and the incentives and resources that are available to help you take action. During the Q&A and discussion period, we encourage you to share your own electrification experiences.

Brian has over 30 years of experience in product design, engineering, manufacturing, and sustainability. He held many leadership roles at Nike Inc., including Vice President of Sustainable Innovation.

Electrify Now is a volunteer organization devoted to educating energy consumers and homeowners about the benefits of electrification and the role that all of us can play to accelerate the world to clean renewable energy and a sustainable future.

*ECA-Oregon is a local chapter of Elders Climate Action and is guided by a core team comprised of Mike Allen in Florence, Lise Colgan in Cottage Grove, Brett Walker in Corvallis, Chuck Lebold in Union, Tom Kerns in Yachats, and Alain Gauthier, John Weigant, and Carol Raphael, newsletter editor, in Portland.
