Subject: helping hands coalition question

Dear Wendy,

By no means am I as attuned to events as my wife Jacquie, but I have some pertinent question. As a former law enforcement officer I have always looked under rocks for answers. Why do the proposed applicants want to do what they are applying for, and immediately the answer is for the good of people, but is it? Has the police department evaluated the qualification of those proposing to feed the needy as to their qualifications. Where does the money come from to purchase the food and if by contributions who is the qualified auditor for the use of the money. I do not want to point fingers but often events like this are fronts to skim off money. I hope commission will take a prescient approach to issuing this conditional use permit
